Complaints are being received that cattle are being sold at high prices and exported from the State in large numbers and that it is feared there might be a shortage of ~~draught~~ ordinary cattle for agricultural purposes. I shall be glad if the question of prohibiting the export of cattle from the State under the Defence of India Rules or otherwise is expeditiously considered.

A draft note based on that issued by the Bhopal Govt is put up. It may however be submitted that it is doubtful if the notification could be issued under the provisions of Rule 81(a) of the Defence of India Rules as applied to Mysore. It is perhaps desirable to take power under Rule 81 by the addition of an item under Sub-rule (2) for prohibiting the slaughter

(20) It is doubtful if Cow Slaughter may be prohibited valid under Rule 81(2) of the Defence of India Rules. That Rule gives power to the Government to regulate or prohibit the production, treatment, disposal, use etc., of "articles or things" of any description whatsoever". Ordinarily, the words "articles or things" mean "inanimate objects" as distinguished from "animate" ones, and it is a well known rule of construction that in dealing with matters relating to the general public, statutes are presumed to use words in their popular sense. --(Maxwell on the interpretation of Statutes page 98). The words "article or thing" are not words of art. Chamber's Twentieth Century Dictionary defines an "article" as a particular substance and "thing" as an inanimate object; a living being (a living being in tenderness or in contempt). "When two or more words susceptible of analogous meaning are coupled together, they are understood to be used in their cognate sense" -- Maxwell on the interpretation of Statutes page 574). The two terms "article or thing" being coupled together, they must be understood to be used in a cognate sense and as meaning ~~in which the word "thing" is~~

~~is used in its popular meaning, viz.,~~ an inanimate object.

(21) There is, however, one old English case decided in 1860 in which the term "article" has been taken to include a living horse also. The XXV Section of the ~~Land of~~ Llandaff and Canton District Markets Act enacts that every person "shall sell or expose for sale at any place within the limits of the Act any article in respect of which tolls are by this Act, and authorised to be taken" shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 40 shillings. By a schedule to the Act, a toll was imposed on horses. The Court held that a horse was "an article" within the above Section. -- (141 English Reports page 1267). In the case, however, the schedule itself had specified "a horse" as an article which fell within the relevant Section, and the case cannot, therefore, be taken as an authority for the proposition that the term "article" can be taken to cover animate objects.

(22) On the other side, it may be argued that the two terms "articles or things" as used in the Rule under consideration, must be taken to mean things in their juristic sense and not in the popular sense. Thus by things "are understood every object except man which may become an active subject of right. In this sense, it is opposed in the language of the law to the word "persons". (Bouvier's Law Dictionary Volume III page 3268). It was in this sense that the old Roman Lawyers understood the term "res" as including both animate and inanimate objects, as for instance, res naturae or animals in their wide condition or res nullius or animals without a owner.

If the term "articles or things" are understood in their strictly juridic sense, they may be taken to include animals also.

(23) But, if, on the other hand, the two terms are taken in their popular sense, they would not include animate objects, and an order under Rule 81(2) of the Defence of India Rules, cannot be made for prohibiting cow slaughter.

JMW 24/5

Law Secy

(24) The question is not free from doubt. To get over the difficulty, Rule 81(2) may be suitably amended so as to add the word animal to the words articles, things. The word will then include, articles, things or animal.

Final Note by the Minister for Revenue and Law.

Subject.— Promulgation of the Defence of India (Amendment) Act, 1943.

Complaints are being received that cattle are being exported from the State in large numbers and that there might be a shortage of working cattle for agricultural purposes. A Notification was accordingly issued in May this year under rule 81(2) of the Defence of India Rules, as applied to Mysore, prohibiting the transport from Mysore to any place outside of it, of cattle except with the written permission of a District Magistrate.

The question of issuing a Notification for the prevention of slaughter of cattle (cows in particular) so that only those that are not useful for any other purposes may be allowed to be slaughtered was also taken up for consideration. It was then found that rule 81(2) of the Defence of India Rules and clause(xx) of Section 2(2) of the Defence of India Act related only to "articles or things" and a doubt was expressed if this would cover cases of animals. In order to place the matter beyond all doubt, it is proposed to amend the Defence of India Act as applied to Mysore and thereafter the Rules. These amendments are made retrospective, so as to cover the Notification already issued. The Act will be promulgated under the prerogative of His Highness as the original Act was similarly promulgated.

Having toured in Gundlupet and Chamarajanagar Taluks, I have come to understand that cattle in large number are being removed outside the State from Terakanambi, Santhemarahalli and other Shandies. The price of cattle has already gone high and I am afraid, that if this were to continue for some time longer there will not be enough cattle for Agricultural purposes. I would, therefore, suggest that removal of cattle outside the State may kindly be prohibited.

CHIEF SECRETARY. 23. APR. 1943 GOVT. OF MYSORE

Sir,

With reference to your D.O. letter R. 8562 dated 19-4-43 requesting my views in the matter of prohibiting the export of cattle from the State under the Defence of India Rules and regulating the slaughter of cattle (cows in particular), I have the honour to state that it is very desirable and necessary in the interest of the ryots of the State, to prohibit the export of cattle from Mysore, as I am given to understand that many of our ryots have disposed of their cattle to outsiders for high prices, in the hope of buying them in the Jatras which were prohibited on account of cholera fear.

Regarding the slaughter of cattle and cows in particular, I think that only the old and the useless ones alone should be permitted to be slaughtered and this may be controlled at the slaughter houses.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

M. S. [illegible]
